Opportunity . . . 1964!

Al Roberts didn't want to breed just average cattle. He wanted to breed top Shorthorns. He set out with that determination. He has kept his eye fixed on that goal.

He started with cows from top herds. He picked them with the requirement that they come from families that have produced the best cattle over the years in that herd. He paid the price it took to own them.

It is pleasing to note how well these cows have produced. Their daughters and granddaughters bespeak the wisdom of "starting right." These females are the "worth owning" kind; they are a producing herd of cows — no boarders. Good udders that go with good cows are the rule. Cows with scale, cows with thickness and cows anyone would be proud to own.

The best herds in the country will find cattle that would fit their kind of cattle. The beginner will find the kind he should buy to never have to start over. Those who are always looking for females to strengthen their herds will like what they will find.

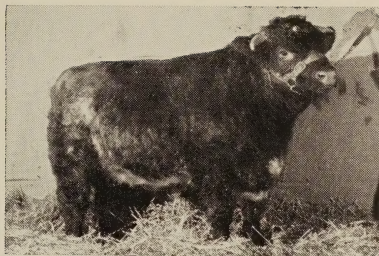

No herd will be offering more real top prospects than the young cattle sired by ACADIA ROYAL NAPOLEON and GLASTULLICH ROYAL HARMONY — show prospects that can be winners and produce winners.

Just come to the sale and do your own looking. You'll find a lot to think about, and you'll find Al Robert's Shorthorns are the "worth owning" kind.

✻ GLASTULLICH ROYAL HARMONY 3147-701. "A stock bull," says Paul Teegardin, and he goes on further, "stock bulls that write history in my observation are bulls that must meet two requirements: (1) They must inherit the right to sire great calves—that means they must combine the blood of stock bulls of known repute as sires. They must come from a cow family capable of producing stock bulls. GLASTULLICH ROYAL HARMONY is such a bull. Beaufort Chevalier, Banchory Jason, Tolquhon Bosco and Glastullich Paragon warrant a background of recognized heritage. His dam was from a Millhills Pauline foundation, a herd recognized for its pre-potent cow families. (2) A herd of good females to work on. The Roberts cows meet this requirement—cows that are correct in type, cows that swing good udders, are from dependable families and are backed by the right bulls. The calves by GLASTULLICH ROYAL HARMONY are an outstanding lot with great bone and ruggedness, thickness with depth and good headed. I was impressed the first time I saw them. I went back to have a second look. I came away with the feeling that he could well be one of the great sires to come from the great nursery at Glastullich. I saw the bull in his working clothes, right in the pasture where I saw his first crop of calves. GLASTULLICH ROYAL HARMONY could be the stock bull OPPORTUNITY of 1964."
